

Charles Sturt
University

#1 public uni in Australia for grads who get jobs*

Bachelor of Nursing

Our accredited course will prepare you for the healthcare workforce, and you'll benefit from our strong industry links across New South Wales' regional and metropolitan communities. Patient care requires a holistic approach, and this course provides you with the theory, skills and understanding you'll need in the workplace.

Charles Sturt University has led the way in nursing education for more than 40 years. You will receive a thorough education with hands-on clinical practice balanced with nursing theory, human bioscience, and behavioural and social sciences.

Throughout the course, you'll undertake at least 800 hours of workplace learning in an exciting range of authentic healthcare settings.

With our clinical placements you'll graduate industry-ready and prepared for your role as a registered nurse.

This course is accredited by the Australian Nursing and Midwifery Accreditation Council, and leads to registration as a registered nurse in Australia.
